Model T

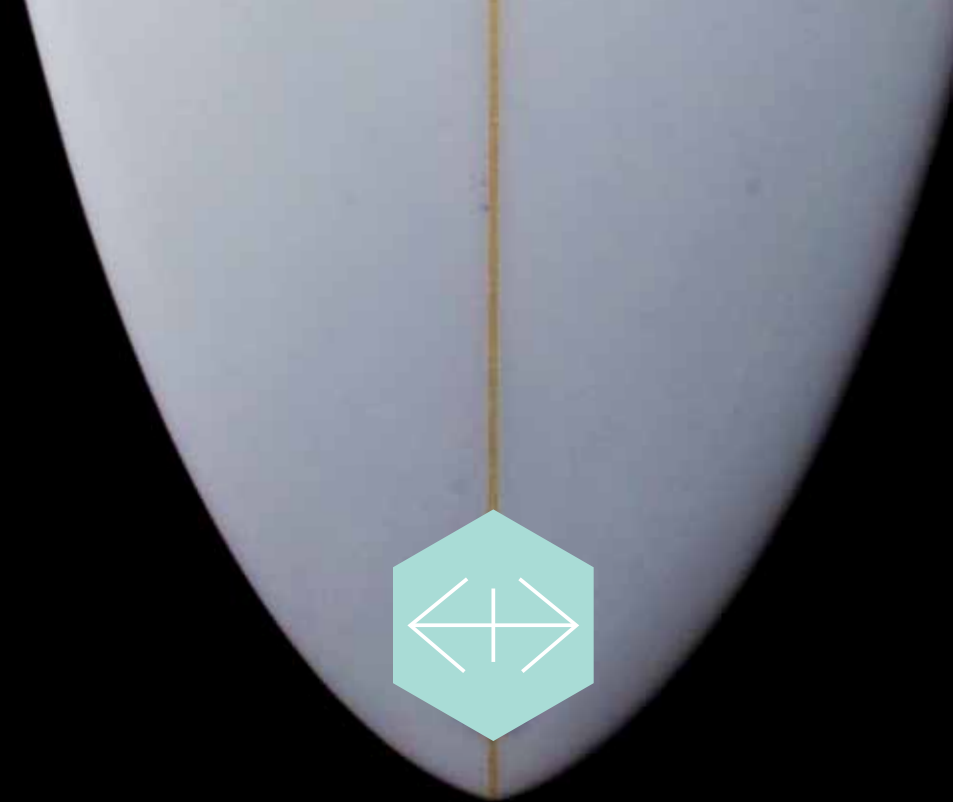

5'8" to 6'8"

Sitka's do everything surfboard. Forgiving forward rails (⚔) with harder rails at the tail (⚔) allow for a board that excels in most any condition. Can also be made as a big guy's short board.

If you can only have one board in the bag this would be the one.

A high performance surfboard in its purest form. Designed for the intermediate to advanced surfer in powerful waves. Lots of rocker, hard rails (⌘), and a pulled in rounded pin tail (⇔) makes for a board that excels in juicy surf.

Flying Saucer

Forgiving rails with a low rocker (↕) make for a fast but stable ride. Two tail options of either a thumb or a winged thumb make this an excellent choice for the surfer looking to draw big curves. An excellent point break board.

A board with almost unlimited potential.

5'6" - 6'0"

Our take on one of the best selling board designs in recent years. Lots of volume in the nose (▲) and a wide point placed further forward creates a board that makes even the smallest days a good time. Forgiving rails (⊕), and a diamond tail (⚡) make this board easy to surf and generate speed out of nothing.

Five Alive

A modern performance fish. Forging rails (🌀) and a swallow tail (👉) result in a board with lots of drive and float for smaller, less powerful surf. With a five fin configuration it has increased flexibility to adapt to any situation. Comes standard with a swallow tail.

Retro 5

5'4" to 6'4"

A classic fish that pays homage to the 70's when boards were wide, flat and fast. Big boxy rails (📐) and a 5 fin setup makes this a perfect board to add to your quiver for summer, for small days or for whenever you just need to get in the water.

5'2" to 6'

Super Stub

A shorter, more agile cousin of the retro five with a pulled in tail (🏄), this board catches waves with ease but still turns on a dime. Super fast and a real good time for those looking to improve their wave count.

the Rad Reid

Board Size 5'2" to 5'10"

A little shorter a little wider a little faster.
For the true fish lover, this board cruises on small days and through flat sections.
Comes standard with bamboo glass on fins but can be ordered with removable keels

Longboards

Whether you're looking for a performance longboard or a platform for your soul arch, Sitka has you covered.
